ABOUT SHAKESPEARE IN LOVE

Shakespeare in Love, based on the award winning film screenplay by Marc Norman and Tom Stoppard, was adapted for the stage by Lee Hall. It depicts a fictional love affair involving playwright William Shakespeare and Viola de Lesseps while Shakespeare was writing Romeo and Juliet. Several characters are based on historical figures, and many of the characters, lines, and plot devices allude to Shakespeare's plays.

SYNOPSIS

In 1593 London, William Shakespeare is a sometime player in the Lord Chamberlain's Men and playwright for Philip Henslowe, owner of The Rose Theatre. Shakespeare is suffering from writer's block over his new comedy, Romeo and Ethel, the Pirate's Daughter, but a desperate Henslowe, in debt to ruthless moneylender Fennyman, begins auditions anyway. Viola de Lesseps, daughter of a wealthy merchant, who has seen Shakespeare's plays at court, disguises herself as a man named Thomas Kent to audition. Kent gains Shakespeare's interest with a speech from Two Gentlemen of Verona, but runs away when Shakespeare questions her. He pursues Kent to Viola's house and leaves a note with her nurse, asking Kent to begin rehearsals at the Rose.

Shakespeare sneaks into a ball at the house, where Viola's parents arrange her betrothal to Lord Wessex, an aristocrat in need of money. Dancing with Viola, Shakespeare is struck speechless. After introducing himself as Christopher Marlowe, Shakespeare is ejected by Wessex, who threatens to kill him. Shakespeare finds Viola on her balcony, where they confess their mutual attraction before he is discovered by her nurse and flees. Inspired by Viola, Shakespeare quickly transforms the play into what will become Romeo and Juliet. As rehearsals begin, with Thomas Kent as Romeo, Shakespeare discovers Viola's true identity, and they begin a secret affair.

News arrives that Marlowe has been murdered. A guilt-ridden Shakespeare assumes Wessex had Marlowe killed, believing him to be Viola's lover, while Viola believes Shakespeare to be the victim. Shakespeare appears at her church, allaying Viola's fears and terrifying Wessex, who believes he is a ghost. Viola confesses her love for Shakespeare, but both recognize she cannot escape her duty to marry Wessex.

After a young John Webster discovers their secret, Viola's identity becomes exposed, leaving Shakespeare without a stage or a lead actor, until Burbage offers his theatre and the heartbroken Shakespeare takes the role of Romeo. Following her wedding, Viola learns the play will be performed that day, and runs away to the Curtain. She overhears that the boy playing Juliet cannot perform, his voice having broken, and Henslowe asks her to replace him. She plays Juliet to Shakespeare's Romeo to an enthralled audience.

Just after the play has concluded, Tilney arrives to arrest everyone for indecency due to Viola's presence, but the Queen reveals herself in attendance and restrains him, pretending that Kent is a man with a "remarkable resemblance" to a woman. Powerless to end a lawful marriage, she orders Viola to sail with Wessex to Virginia.

Viola and Shakespeare say their goodbyes, and he vows to immortalise her, as he imagines the beginning of Twelfth Night, in character as a castaway disguised as a man after a voyage to a strange land.

REVIEW

“I've often attacked our modern mania for turning movies into plays. But, in the case of Shakespeare in Love, the transformation is fully justified. Even more than the original screenplay by Marc Norman and Tom Stoppard, Lee Hall's new version is a love letter to theatre itself, and one that celebrates the way magic and mystery are born out of chaos and confusion.” – Michael Billington, The Guardian, 24 July 2014

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: LEE HALL

Lee Hall (born 20 September 1966) is an English playwright, television writer, screenwriter, and lyricist. He is best known for writing the screenplay for the film Billy Elliot (2000) and the book and lyrics for its adaptation as a stage musical of the same name. In addition, he wrote the play The Pitmen Painters (2007), and the screenplay for the film Rocketman (2019).

Hall's most commercially successful work is Billy Elliot, the story of a North Eastern English boy who, in the face of opposition from his family and community, aspires to be a ballet dancer. The inspiration for the screenplay was drawn, in part, from the A. J. Cronin novel The Stars Look Down, which is also set in an English coal mining community during a strike, and similarly tells the story of a miner's son who goes against the grain. Initially a 2000 film directed by Stephen Daldry, for which Hall wrote the screenplay, and for which he received an Academy Award nomination, Billy Elliot was later turned into a stage musical, with music by Elton John and lyrics by Hall. It enjoyed a long run in the West End and opened on Broadway in 2008. It won Hall the 2009 Tony Award for Best Book of a Musical.

Hall's play, The Pitmen Painters, inspired by art critic William Feaver's book on the Ashington Group, premiered at the refurbished Live Theatre in Newcastle upon Tyne in 2007. It tells of a group of miners from Ashington, Northumberland, who decide to learn about art and begin to paint. The production later transferred to the National Theatre in London and opened on Broadway in September 2010. It won the 2008 Evening Standard Award for Best Play.

AUDITIONS

| WHAT | WHO | WHEN |
|-------------------------------|----------------|--|
| Open auditions | Everyone | Tuesday 28 th June 6:00-9:00 |
| (Potential) call-backs | Invited | Thursday 30th June 7:00-9:00 |

Each audition piece is a duologue. You may find a partner to practice with and pick one side that suits you, but this is not required and you can come and work with someone in the audition itself.

Think about what character will suit you best – will you be a star crossed lover, poet, comical player or royalty? I will be looking at interpretation of character, so prepare well and bring originality to the roles.

Acting side 1: Viola and Nurse

Viola

But how can one care for Silvia while she is – by the order of the Lord Chamberlain – played by a pipsqueak boy in petticoats!

Nurse

I liked the dog.

Viola

Stage love will never be real love until we women can be on stage ourselves. Yet when can we see another?

Nurse

When the Queen commands it.

Viola

But at the playhouse.

Nurse

Playhouses are not for well-born ladies.

Viola

I am not so well-born.

Nurse

Well-monied is the same as well-born and well-married better than both. Lord Wessex was looking at you tonight.

Viola

All the men at Court are without poetry. If they look at me they see my father's fortune. I will have poetry in my life. And adventure. And love. Love above all.

Nurse

Like Valentine and Silvia?

Viola

No – not the artful postures of love, but the love that overthrows life. Unbiddable, ungovernable, like a riot in the heart, and nothing to be done, come ruin or rapture. Love like there has never been in a play. I will have love or I will end my days –

Nurse

As a nurse?

Viola

But I would be Valentine and Silvia too somehow. Good Nurse, God save you and goodnight. I would stay asleep my whole life if I could dream myself into a company of players.

Acting side 2: Ralph and Henslowe

Ralph

Ah Mr Henslowe. How goes it, sir?

Henslowe

Very well. Very well, Ralph, my good man. Some food and drink.

Ralph

Well, the special today is a pig's foot marinated in juniper berry vinegar served with a buckwheat pancake and a burdock salad.

Henslowe

I'll have a pie and pint. And have one for yourself, Master Ralph.

Ralph

Did I hear you have a play, Mr Henslowe?

Henslowe

Shakespeare is writing as we speak.

Ralph

Is there anything for me?

Henslowe

You're a perfect Pirate King, Ralph, but I hear you are a drunken sot.

Ralph

Never when I'm working. What about the money?

Henslowe

It won't cost you a penny. We will all share the profits. Auditions this afternoon.

Ralph

Auditions? Where are your usual men?

Henslowe

With Ned Alleyn in the provinces. God knows when they will return. We cannot delay. Auditions round the back in five minutes. If you are not there, Will, I will cast it myself. Ralph, bring the pie round.

Acting side 3: Will and Viola/Kent

Will

Oh Thomas, I am undone, my strings are cut – I'm a puppet in a box. She tells me to keep away. She is to marry Lord Wessex.

Viola/Kent

If you love her you must do as she asks.

Will

And break her heart and mine?

Viola/Kent

It's only yours you can know.

Will

She loves me, Thomas!

Viola/Kent

Does she say so?

Will

No. And yet she does where the ink has run with tears. Was she weeping when she gave you this?

Viola/Kent

I ... her letter came to me by the nurse.

Will

Your aunt?

Viola/Kent

Yes, my aunt. Perhaps she wept a little. Tell me how you love her, Will.

Will

Like a sickness and its cure together.

Viola/Kent

Yes, like rain and sun, like cold and heat. (Collecting herself.) Is your lady beautiful? Since I came to visit from the country, I have not seen her close. Tell me, is she beautiful?

Will

Oh, Thomas, if I could write the beauty of her eyes! I was born to look in them and know myself.

Viola/Kent

And her lips?

Will

Oh, Thomas, her lips! The early morning rose would wither on the branch, if it could feel envy!

Viola/Kent

And her voice? Like lark song?

Will

Deeper, softer. None of your twittering larks! I would banish nightingales from her garden before they interrupt her song.

Viola/Kent

She sings too.

Will

Constantly. Without doubt. And plays the lute, she has a natural ear.

Viola/Kent

I think the lady is wise to keep your love at a distance. For what lady could live up to it close to, when her eyes and lips and voice may be no more beautiful than mine? Besides, can a lady born to wealth and noble marriage love happily with a Bankside poet and player?

Will

Yes, by God! Love knows nothing of rank or riverbank! It will spark between a queen and the poor vagabond who plays the king, and their love should be minded by each, for love denied blights the soul we owe to God! So tell My Lady, William Shakespeare waits for her in the garden.

Acting side 4: Will and Marlowe

Marlowe

What is next?

Will

A new play. For Twelfth Night.

Marlowe

Good title.

Will

Really?

Marlowe

And the comedy?

Will

Comedy! What will my hero be but the saddest wretch in the kingdom, sick with love?

Marlowe

Good start. Let him be ... a duke.

Will

Orsino.

Marlowe

Good name. And your heroine?

Will

Sold in marriage and halfway to America! And so my story begins at sea ... a perilous voyage to an unknown land ... a shipwreck –

Marlowe

A shipwreck is good.

Will

The wild waters roar and heave ... the brave vessel is dashed all to pieces and all the hapless souls are drowned –

Marlowe

A comedy?

Will

– save one. A woman whose soul is greater than the ocean and her spirit stronger than the sea's embrace. Not for her a watery end but a new life beginning on a stranger shore, the province of the duke, Orsino.

Marlowe
And then –

Will
Fearful of her virtue she comes to him dressed as a boy.

Marlowe
Thus unable to declare her love. Funny.

Will
No, the comedy is with the clapped-out veterans and cross-gartered prigs who rule the household. Viola is the spirit of freedom, of true love trying against all bounds to be out.

Marlowe
But how will it end?

Will
Happily.

Marlowe
But how?

Will
I don't know. It's a mystery.

Acting side 5: Viola, and Queen Elizabeth I (Tilney's line can be read in)

Viola

Your Highness.

Queen

Stand up straight, girl.

I have seen you. You are the one who comes to all the plays ... at Whitehall, at Richmond.

Viola

Your Majesty.

Queen

What do you love so much?

Viola

Your Majesty ...?

Queen

Speak out! I know who I am. Do you love stories of kings and queens? Feats of arms? Or is it courtly love?

Viola

I love theatre. To have stories acted for me by a company of fellows is indeed –

Queen

They are not acted for you, they are acted for me. And ...?

Viola

I love poetry above all.

Queen

Above Lord Wessex? My Lord, when you cannot find your wife you had better look for her at the playhouse.

Tilney

Hardly a place for a young lady of breeding, Your Majesty.

Queen

Oh, I am all for the theatre, Mr Tilney. But playwrights teach nothing about love, they make it pretty, they make it comical, or they make it lust. They cannot make it true.

Viola

Oh, but they can.
